JAPAN SEES SHIPS.

Trying to Buy Two Vessels From the Argentine Republic.

London, Dec. 28.—Japan is negotiating for the purchase of the Argentine warships Moreno and Rivadavia, now building at Genoa, Italy, but up to a late hour the Japanese legation had not heard of the completion of their purchase.

The Moreno is an armored cruiser of 7,700 tons displacement, 13,500 indicated horsepower and carrying six inches of harveized nickel steel armor. She was launched in the present year and is to have a speed of twenty knots. Her armament consists of four eight-inch guns, fourteen six-inch guns, ten three-inch guns, a number of smaller guns and four torpedo tubes.

The Rivadavia is of the same displacement, horsepower, length, beam and draft as the Moreno and carries the same armor, but her armament is different. The Rivadavia, which was launched in 1902, carries one ten-inch gun, two eight-inch guns, fourteen six-inch guns, ten three-inch guns and a number of smaller guns, besides being fitted with four torpedo tubes. Her speed is estimated at twenty knots. Both vessels will carry from 900 to 1,150 tons of coal, and their complements will be 500 men each.

Tokyo, Dec. 28.—An important joint meeting of the cabinet and privy council has taken place to consider ways and means in view of the grave situation. No difficulty is anticipated in providing for the extraordinary expenditure, including the completion of the Seoul-Pusan railway. It is believed that unless Russia modifies her reply Japan will immediately suspend Korea, though such a step will not necessarily mean war with Russia.

Green For Evening Wear.

Green is a tremendously popular color for evening wear just now, and there are few women so plain this hue does not become them, says the New York Press. A blond looks well in pale green, a brunette in apple green. Intermediate shades are generally becoming, but the most fashionable shade is bluish green, the color of a bottle fly. Green spangles are unexcelled for modish evening gowns, and, in fact, "crazy" decorations are all the vogue. For the hair, "buds" are wearing green leaves covered with a varnish that produces a glistening effect. In the words of a witty woman, "It is to glitter."
